$500, and Center Farm Financial Management $1000. The conference is always looking for new sponsors and any contacts people have or can recommend helps tremendously. Denise Reeser will be replacing Tina LeBrun as sponsorship coordinator for the conference. Motion by Jay Olson to approve sponsorship report, 2nd by Brent Roiger, motion passed.

Myron shared his article that went out in the nuts & bolts report. (attach report)

Conference memorandum of understanding (MOU) with NAFBAS to hold a joint conference is a current document. Myron explained who NAFBAS is as a group, what they do, and who their main clientele is. NAFBAS gave a two-year notice to NFRBMEA last week to dissolve the MOU. At the joint board meeting yesterday, a committee was formed to review the memorandum of understanding, to make revisions, and to create a template for planning future conferences. The depth of workshops at the conference this year was disappointing to NAFBAS. Myron shared that NFRBMEA would not take any action on the MOU until our membership was informed about the notice for dissolution from NAFBAS. Tim Holtquist shared that at the beginning, the memberships were about the same numbers of people from each organization. Ron Dvergsten was involved in signing the original MOU. Discussion was had about membership in NFRBMEA decreasing, and why people aren't attending the conference. The committee is going to make a decision by the end of July about the MOU. There will be 3 people from NFRBMEA (Tina LeBrun, Jeff Schultz, and Myron Oftedah) and 3 (Laura Powers, Chelsea Plummer, and Jim McCabe) from NAFBAS. Discussion was had about what NFRBMEA does with conference sponsorship, Deb Pike's work, and conference treasurer. Discussion had about having a deeper dive into topics at the conference verses the really short topics that just touch the surface. Topics to give to Jim for 2023 conference are: Economics & Tax implications of alternative energy (solar, etc.), Carbon credits: deep dive, Farm visit-share best practices & tools. (networking/like "hallway meetings in Hilton Head"), Profitability differences for farms using "traditional methods" verses farms using "conservation practices example – cover crops, etc.," income tax management in high income years. Discussed that new instructor trainings for both NAFBAS & NFRBMEA would be beneficial.

June 12-15, 2023 conference in Belaire, MI. Planning committee Lynn Hoffmann, Sara will work on Randy Tempis to be on planning committee (possible 2-year commitment 2023 & 2024 conference)

2024 conference location and conference planning committee, Lynn Hoffmann, MN & Jeff Schultz, MN. Sara Maass-Pate was going to talk to Randy Tempis, WI about the committee too for future conferences.

Professional development webinars are in planning stages for this fall. Ideas are: Webinars for early career FBM instructors. Tax planning for dummies. How to work with bankers in your area-meet bankers needs to help with student recruitment. What's happening with interest rates? ARM group had ideas and would be willing to present. Income tax management in high income years.

Discussion was had about choices FBM instructors make when choosing a conference to attend and how to get more people to attend the NFRBMEA summer conference.

Meeting adjourned at 6:54pm by Tina LeBrun.

Submitted by,

Jennifer Smith, NFRBMEA Secretary
